

SERVICES FOR SUNDAY IN CHURCHES OF LA CROSSE

TOMORROW

PRESBYTERIAN

First Presbyterian church, Sixth and King streets, Claude R. Shaver, minister.

Morning worship at 10:30 will suggest some new thoughts on a very old question, "Can a Man of the World be a Man of God?" All of which forecasts a different idea of the "Man of the World" from the conventional one.

HAS NOT THE "CHURCH GOING HABIT" (as Americans construe it).

YET

He pays his debts—after a fashion.
He is temperate—after a fashion.
He smokes good tobacco—after a fashion.
He is patriotic—after a fashion.

DON'T ALLOW your belief in God (after a fashion) or your "respectability" in family support, or honesty, or temperance, or taste in cigars, or patriotism (after a fashion) to dull your conscience against THE NEED OF CHURCH ATTENDANCE.

PLAN LA CROSSE DISPLAY AT THE MILWAUKEE SHOW

Exhibition of Products Made in this City Proposed by Chamber of Commerce

Chairman W. F. Hurlston of the Wisconsin Products Exposition committee of the Chamber of Commerce has called a meeting of manufacturers to meet at the Chamber of Commerce at 1:30 Monday afternoon, the 20th, to consider the advisability of having an exhibit of La Crosse-made products at the Wisconsin Products Exposition to be held in the auditorium at Milwaukee on December 11 to 20 inclusive.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce have made an appropriation to pay for the space, the booth and sign and everything essential to the exhibit if the manufacturers are willing to get together and install La Crosse products.

"This is one of the highest exhibitions held in the state," said Chairman Hurlston, "and gives manufacturers of La Crosse an unusual opportunity to place their products before the thousands of people who will visit the exposition. The Chamber of Commerce will defray the cost and the cost to the manufacturers will be comparatively nothing."

In addition to paying for the space, booth and sign, etc., the Chamber of Commerce will provide thousands of pieces of literature setting forth the advantages of La Crosse and La Crosse-made products.

The purposes of this exposition have been given as:

"To bring the residents of cities in closer touch with the farms and their products;

"To bring the farmer a better knowledge of Wisconsin industrial products;

"To improve marketing methods of both;

"To set before the entire nation, through publicity, the 'quality' products of Wisconsin; and

"To bring to the attention of all citizens the cooperation and inspiration provided by the various Wisconsin state departments identified with the development of farm and industry," continued Chairman Hurlston.

NO WANT

THERE is no want to them that fear Him.—Psalms 34: 9.

Two Strike Ideas

LEWIS, president of the United Mine Workers, is entering into a conference between mine workers and mine officials out of which, he stoutly insists, there is apt to come an arrangement which will prevent mine strikes in the future. With some agreements expiring March 21, this is of immediate importance, but its greater significance lies in the fact that the head of one of the greatest of American unions is sold on the idea that strikes may be avoided without recourse to law.

Strangely contrasted with the project of President Lewis, is the proposal of Senator Cummins of Iowa, to introduce in the senate, at the short session, a bill proposing to make strikes on railroads illegal, and to penalize the responsible parties whether owners or employees. It is said Senator Cummins will urge President Harding to back his measure, which appears to aim at conciliation by legalizing the living wage as a basis for radical proceedings by the rail labor board.

It is said that the present congress will not take this program seriously, and it is more than certain that the liberalized congress coming through the recent election will not countenance it.

Probably American public opinion will never sanction anti-strike legislation affecting any employment which is not owned by the government. Government ownership might pave the way to legally outlaw strikes on essential public service, but any law which says that one private citizen shall not discontinue his employment by another private citizen would go against the grain of the country.

"Politics"

IN an editorial published in the Wisconsin State Journal Thursday, Nov. 9, the observation was made that the present leaders of the republican party probably would prefer to retain possession of the party organization, even at the cost of defeat in a presidential year, rather than surrender control to more liberal minded leadership that might win and hold the confidence of the public.

We take that, offhand, as a typical bit of conservative psychology. Let us turn to England for an analogy.

Sir George Younger, wealthy business man who is the power behind the conservative party, interviewed by a representative of the American press said:

From my standpoint, it would be far better for our party to go to sure defeat in the election and be kept intact, than to continue to slide along as at present.

We saw an American parallel immediately after the war when isolationists and bitter enders of the republican party sought to defeat the League of Nations rather than lose control to the democrats, even though to do so compelled them to defeat an international program for permanent peace which every day is more conclusively shown to have been the one ready and practical expedient to that end.

But political expediency seems not entirely confined to conservative elements. Note, if you please, the announcement of Senator Borah, radical leader, that he will inaugurate a filibuster against the ship subsidy bill in the coming short session of congress rather than permit the republican party to succeed in "a second attempt at party suicide."

There are bad features in the ship subsidy bill—notably its inclusion of Standard Oil tankers and merchant vessels. On the other hand unless its opponents can offer some practical substitute, there are many things to be said in its favor. It should stand or fall upon its merits, and demerits, but in no sense should its fate be decided upon the purely political consideration of its effects upon the campaign fortunes of a political party.

Such, however, is politics here, and in England and the world over. We may come to a higher level of public spirit in political matters, but as long as man is selfish and opportunity coveted, we can never become entirely free from the propaganda of the vote getter.

Louisiana couple have four sets of twins. That's thrice. They are cheaper two at a time.

Firearms

WE have noted that the modern crook is not of the old type. The romance of free-booters is gone. The man who robbed the king to feed the pauper no longer exists. Neither is the highly intellectual criminal, who made of his job a sort of learned profession, the brains and ingenuity of which were admirable, to be found nowadays. Brains has found more profitable work, as a rule. Instead of these types we have the modern gunman, who indulges in murder without hesitation and to whom nothing is unethical. Perhaps the war has had something to do with the growth of shooting, which the adventurer of intellect held in contempt. A world that has just finished killing millions in warfare naturally includes many who place small value on human life.

There is before congress the Capper Bill (S. 4012) which is offered as a model for state legislation. It governs the ownership of firearms. Under it the purchaser must be a citizen identified to a licensed dealer in arms. The purchaser must file a record of the sale to be kept by the police. A weapon may not be delivered within a day after its purchase. To carry a weapon requires a license. Dealers may not display firearms in show-windows. Possession of a weapon by one committing felony is made prima facie evidence of criminal intent, and automatically adds five years to the sentence. Second and third offenses carry high penalties, and a fourth offense may mean life imprisonment. It is a crime to crase manufacturers' numbers from weapons. Aliens and persons who have been convicted of felony are forbidden to carry pistols.

It will be seen that the object of this bill is to permit law abiding citizens to possess themselves of the means of self defense and at the same time to make it both difficult and dangerous for law breakers to arm themselves. Every day the news brings stories of murder. Never has human life been held so cheap by those who prey upon society. The proposed measure deserves the consideration of state legislatures.

Catastrophies

SUPPOSE our present civilization crashes to ruin, as H. G. Wells and others predict. What then? Civilizations have decayed into the dust many times in the past. And out of the ruins a new and better civilization always rose. It's a natural process in the life-death-life cycle. Maybe the world needs another complete overhauling. When it comes to making people really happy, write our civilization down as a partial failure. Every one instinctively feels that something is fundamentally wrong in the world. That something is in the very core of the "civilization" we've developed.

Making It Unanimous

BY MARTHA McCULLOCH-WILLIAMS

Mariette caught her breath as, unfolding the check that had just dropped from the letter, she saw it was for a hundred dollars. She stared at it doubtfully—the sum was so far past belief. And she had expected nothing beyond the warm thanks rendered by those strange motor folk for the small help she had rendered. She could not understand what had moved her to run out into the highway and tell them of the bridge destroyed, the mile of road left impassable by the recent flood and direct them to the old turnpike high on the hillside, by which they had vanished. Evidently the had got her name from the post box. The note ran: "Dear Miss Grayson—

"We hope, my brother and I, that you will accept the inclosure, and buy with it something you may care to have and keep, in memory of your innumerable service to us. But for your kindness, we could not have reached the best of fathers before the end. Please do not think we are offering to pay for it—we are only putting ourselves in your place as far as we may; to us a concrete token of a good deed could not be unvaluable."

"Wishing you all the beautiful things you deserve, we ask you to believe us, always,

"Gratefully your friends," "ALICE AND LINDSAY WARE."

Again Mariette caught her breath. So they were not married, as she had thought almost eagerly. It must be so fine to go with the one you loved best all through a summer world, with no care beyond roads and weather. No such luck for her—she would die as she had been born, poor, thwarted, hampered by fate and the something within that would not let her flinch from the weight laid upon her. A weight irritatingly commonplace—filling in checks, stopping gaps in the household that ran so starkly under Aunt Em's sway. If only she had a free hand—but Aunt Em was "foolish" regarding her prerogatives, also of an explosive temper regarding affronts to her dignity. Mariette stayed with her, an unpaid, unthankful servant, trying to pay a debt she was never allowed to forget—the money Aunt Em had spent to keep Mariette's father comfortable in the hospital until he died of his broken back. That had taken two years, so the charge was really something considerable. But save in her mind, Mrs. Emma Grayson Twining did not feel it. A childless widow, with a fine farm and money ahead, she had no need even to be thrifty. Thrifty, however, she was—the neighbors said, among themselves, "as close as the bark to a tree." Except toward Luke Twining, her husband's grandson—dim, she-pampered, lavishly, not reckoning the cost.

Mariette got food, good food, clothes that were mostly second-hand, and the ugliest, stuffiest of the upstairs rooms, crumpled of tattered furniture. She had new shoes once a year—Aunt Em's old ones simply would not stay on her small feet. But the shoes came out of the egg money, which Mariette earned several times over. Christmas and birthdays she got five dollar bills. Luke had died once to thrust a ten into her hand—and had had it returned to him along with a stinging slap. Mariette would not have given on it had she dreamed what would come of it. Luke, who had regarded her merely with kindly patronage, developed a keen interest in her upon finding she withstood him.

He was so persistent, latterly so urgent, she had felt there must somehow be a breakaway. Aunt Em would stand by him whatever he might say or do—continuous flouting of him Mariette knew might be dangerous. Until now she had been hopeless of escape. Nobody without walking range would harbor her or give her paying work; her scant savings would not take her far and leave anything over for food and shelter. Not a valuable remained to her. Even her silver paper-son and her mother's wedding ring had gone into the maw of hospital expenses. Scanning the check, unseeing she folded it and slipped the letter inside her blouse, barely in time. As she gathered together the miscellaneous heap of mail resting at her feet, Luke reined in a yard away, saying in lordly manner: "What's that?"

there? Anybody left me a million this morning?"

"Were you expecting it?" Mariette asked, handing up to him a letter and turning toward the house.

"Well," he said imperatively, tearing open the letter. "May have to over this in a hurry—and you'll have to copy it. I write such a poor file."

"And your spelling proves you've been through college," Mariette wisely taunted.

A muttered oath started her. Luke was tearing the notes to bits, his face livid with passion. "You will have to answer this—this busy," he said through set teeth. "I'm going to marry you and show her I wanted her money—not herself."

"There'll be two words—maybe more—to that bargain," Mariette flung back, running away, her hands locked hard above the hiding place of her previous letter.

Suppose it had not come—suppose she had not read it unseen. She shivered at the thought, but when she delivered mail to Aunt Em she was her usual stolid self. Aunt Em buried herself in her favorite story-paper, saying absently: "Go on now and help Mam Dacey with the peach preserves—and dinner. Better have it late—Luke said he was going for all day—but I somehow think he'll be home around 2 o'clock."

Mariette bowed obediently and ran away. But not to the preserving—instead to her own place. There she dragged out a suitcase, examined the best and least cumbersome of her dresses, put on her newest, then slipped out the back way, losing herself in hazel thickets beyond the orchard, through which she won finally unseen by any eyes to the road leading to the railway.

She never quite knew how she traversed it, how she climbed breathless aboard a train providentially late. But she will never forget the despair that fell on her when a kindly conductor shook his head over the check, in spite of the letter, but offered to carry her at his own risk to the stop nearest Wareham—he knew the place well. He waved away the bundle of silver she tried to force upon him, saying compassionately: "Keep it for hard times."

To himself he added mentally: "Won't be hard times for her, if she's all right and the check all right. I know the Wares." And thus it came to pass that, mid-afternoon Mariette found herself facing Miss Alice Ware, white and trembling, but saying steadily: "Indeed, indeed! I'm no beggar—if only you'll help me get a start, I can make my way."

She had told her plight, Miss Ware had choked over it a little, but her voice was very clear and soft as she answered: "I am sure of that. It happens, though, we have special need of somebody like you to stay and cheer up our dear grandmother, Lindsay and I are forced to leave her for a while, and certainly will not leave her alone. Will you take the place?"

Stubborn inflammations usually respond to Resinol
Although Resinol Ointment is primarily intended for the treatment of skin affections and the control of itching, it has such a strong healing action that it is highly and widely recommended as a dressing for the most stubborn boils, sores, wounds, etc.
It is mild, soothing and does not smart or sting when applied. Many satisfied users testify that it has healed quickly and easily, sores that have refused to yield to other treatments.
Sold by all druggists.

Mariette nodded, because she could not speak, and sank down all but helpless, so great was her relief.

She grew to love Wareham—every stick and stone, its flowery ways, its lawns and shady nooks, even before the owners of it came back. She loved grandma, too—a gentlewoman of the finest, therefore kindly considerate of her companion.

Tactfully she provided proper garments for the girl, rejoicing to see her bloom into beauty between love and an easy mind. Genealogy was her hobby. She talked pedigrees and family history the time. Thus she found out that, through her mother, Mariette was a third cousin, once removed. Which, of course, made all the difference in the world.

Especially after the grandchildren came home. They hardly knew this transformed Mariette, but quickly realized her charm. Six weeks later Alice said after dinner, as the whole family sat around a glowing fire: "We are going to test you, Mariette. Will you of your great kindness do something that grandmamma and I have set our hearts on?"

"Anything, if it means breaking half the Ten Commandments," Mariette laughed back. "Speak! It shall be done!"

GRIP THREATENS

INFLUENZA SEASON AT HAND
Take Every Precaution Now

This is the influenza season. A few cases have already made their appearance, and although doctors believe that the epidemic of the past few years may not appear this year, they urge the greatest caution.

Colds should be treated promptly. The power of resistance should be kept normal. For both these purposes Father John's Medicine has great value. The basis of Father John's Medicine is cod liver oil scientifically prepared with other ingredients in such a way that it makes new flesh and strength, soothes the breathing passages, and helps to drive off poisonous waste matter. It does its work without narcotics or stimulants, so it is safe for children as well as older people.

HAMLIN GARLAND IS GENIUS WITH PEN COMES NEXT WEEK

La Crosse County Author to Speak at the Normal School on Wednesday Evening

BY D. O. COATE
In an article in the Sunday issue of the New York Herald (June 4, 1922), Mr. Garland tells of his early struggles in becoming a writer. It bears the title "In the Days of My Youth."

One cannot repress a smile when the author attempts to explain with such meticulous care how it all came about; for no matter how much encouragement, in just the nick of time, should come to the rest of us ordinary mortals, we would hardly become famous with our pens. No, it takes more than the timely kindness of a

Dr. Cross of Jamaica Plain. It is the urge within to write which does it. And it is this which makes so slight an incident as the unloading of coal this recalled the author's former experiences in shoveling coal; the thing which starts that long stream of Hamlin Garland's productive writing.

Although it has been said that genius is nine-tenths work; that the so-called inspiration is mostly perspiration, still the one-tenth which makes just the difference between labored, ephemeral writing and real literature, remains to be explained. We call it inspiration, genius. But this merely dodges the difficulty. It is inexplicable; it is a mystery. Naming it, inspiration and genius isn't explaining it.

Again, who of us has not had our youthful days of rich varied experience, recalled by even so slight an incident as this? And have we not often reflected that here is raw material in plenty for a tale? But have we made such use of it? We have not had the inward urge, which indicates the talent, nor the artistic feeling for the fitness of the experiences to represent life, to point a lesson or philosophize the times.

What better proof of genius, for example, than the employment of the beautiful picture, which so well epitomizes not only Mr. Garland's whole thesis in "Main Travelled Roads," but the average of life as well? It forms a foreword to the collection.

This noted author will be heard at the Normal auditorium Wednesday evening, November 22, in "Meetings With Famous American Authors."

VIOLATION OF CHILD LABOR LAWS COSTS EMPLOYERS $24,000

Increased Compensation Awarded Where Child Working Without Permit is Injured

MADISON, Wis.—Failure to observe the Wisconsin child labor laws cost employers $24,499.37 in increased compensation during the past year.

according to report Saturday of the state industrial commission.

The child labor statute provides that when a child of permit age is employed without a permit or at prohibited employments, the compensation shall be trebled and the employer, not the insurance company, must bear the increase. Of the $24,499 assessed against employers, $18,049 was paid because of employment of children without permit and $6,499 because of their employment in prohibited occupations.

The industrial commission report further shows that employers paid $19,010 increased compensation during the year because of failure to observe safety orders of the state. Most of the violations consisted of failure to properly safeguard machinery.

MARINETTE MAY BE SECURED FOR THANKSGIVING DAY BATTLE

WILL HOLD OPEN TURKEY DAY DATE UNTIL MONDAY

Invitation to Superior Remains Open Until that Time it Was Announced Here

SUPERIOR CLAIMS LOCALS OWE HER RETURN GAME

Believe Marinette Will Come if Superior Refuses

In view of unofficial reports that Superior, whom La Crosse has invited to meet the Red and Black here on Turkey day, will not accept the invitation to play here, officials of the local institution have asked the Marinette high school to hold open the Thanksgiving day date with the possibility of arranging a game between these two schools.

Delay Negotiations
Coach George Keegan said Saturday morning that Marinette has consented to delay the scheduling of a game until Monday, when in the event of a La Crosse victory over Madison today, arrangements may be made to bring Marinette here. The invitation to Superior still remains open until that time.

"We cannot take a football team to the north pole for a Thanksgiving day game," said Coach Keegan Saturday in reply to the report that Superior has unofficially refused to come here. "The only reason that superior came here in 1919," he said, "was the fact that Superior could not guarantee the necessary expenses to take the La Crosse team to that city." "We do not owe Superior a return game," Coach Keegan said.

The fact that Marinette has agreed to hold the Turkey day date open is interpreted to mean that she will come here if Superior still refuses. It is understood that the game with West Allis was only a tentative arrangement.

What Superior Says
The following appeared in the Superior Telegram Friday:

"The Superior Central and La Crosse high school football teams want to play each other for state championship honors."

"But, the management of the Superior team say the game must be played in Superior because the local fans demand it."

"And, La Crosse says it must be played at La Crosse because the people of that city demand it."

"So there you are. That the Superior managers mean business is indicated by the fact that an effort is being made to lure up a large high school champion of North Dakota for two years, for an interstate contest in case La Crosse refuses to come to Superior."

"La Crosse owes Superior a return game. The local gridders journeyed to La Crosse for a game Thanksgiving day, 1919."

Yesterday Superior failed in an effort to land Ebbeggen or Port Arthur in a game. As it now stands Marinette, Sheboygan, River Falls and Stevens Point have refused to play Superior. No word has been received from West Allis in answer to Superior's sweeping challenge. Only La Crosse is willing to play the much feared local eleven and the staging of that game hinges on settlement of the question of where it should be played."

SELLS WILD DUCK GETS FIVE DAYS IN COUNTY JAIL

WINONA, Minn., Nov. 16.—Palmicki, 26 years old, today began serving a five day sentence in the Winona county jail following his conviction in municipal court on a charge of violating the game laws by sale of a wild duck.

Palmicki was found guilty by Judge J. J. Fitzpatrick and was given a choice of paying a fine of $10 and costs or spending five days in jail. He took the jail sentence.

The complaint was made by Deputy Warden Herman Rakow, Jr., and the case was prosecuted by County Attorney Earl Simpson.

George Henschel, an employee of the International Harvester Co., purchased the duck for 20 cents, he testified. Palmicki and his companion, Brony Michalowski, denied sale of the duck, claiming that Henschel had thrust 20 cents into Palmicki's hands and had then taken the duck from Michalowski. Henschel testified that Palmicki had argued over the price and had finally accepted 10 cents, after which he said, Michalowski had handed him the duck.

Warden Rakow, who witnessed the transaction, supported Henschel's testimony.

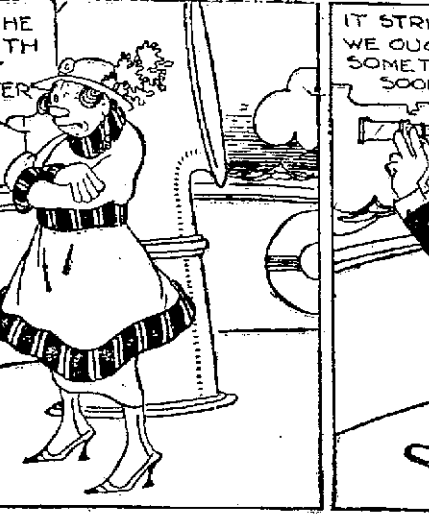

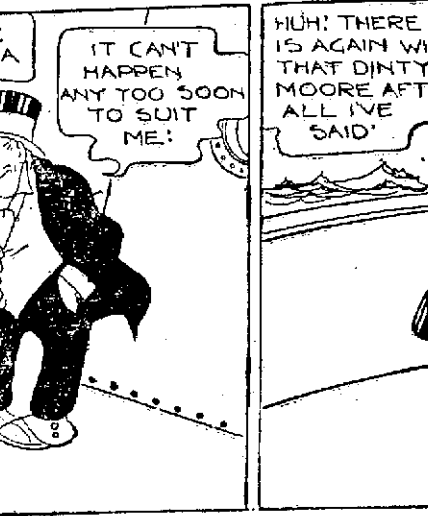

Judge Fitzpatrick, after sentencing Palmicki, called Henschel's attention to the fact that one who purchases a wild game in violation of the law is as liable to punishment as the one who sells it. No charge was filed against Henschel.

MONTAGUES TAKE THREE AND PILE UP LARGER LEAD

The Montagues walloped the La Crosse club quintet Friday night and piled up a still more comfortable lead in the city bowling league. The Cracker and candy men, incidentally, drew the type as the team with the highest total, 2834.

The Triple Seals slid the Arnez shoes, runners-up last week, into fourth place, defeating them three games while the National Gauge took two out of three from the Maders to crawl up a notch. The Maders' 1926 single game was a bit too much for the factory representatives.

The Shrivens and Gibsons each won two out of three from the Rivoli Electric and Krause clothing company, while the Bodega club had no opposition for three games when the Collegians did not appear.

ASHLAND HAS MANY CALLS FOR MEN TO WORK IN WOODS

ASHLAND, Wis.—A big demand still continues for woods labor and there are still some calls for construction work, although not so numerous as during the previous weeks.

The lumber companies have been advertising lately extensively for many men to work on piece-work basis. This is now being changed by loggers who try to get men in Ashland. They complain that it is difficult to get men who know enough about woodswork to make it profitable for the men to work on that basis. Consequently these lumbermen are placing the men on a monthly wage scale.

BIG TEN GAMES SATURDAY REGARDED MORE IMPORTANT THAN FINALS NEXT WEEK

CHICAGO, Ill.—Three unbeaten western conference teams in the race for the football championship of the Big Ten, Chicago, Iowa and Michigan—Saturday engage in battles which may be the determining factor in the chase for the title.

The games Saturday are the semifinals only, but they are regarded as more important in the championship campaign than the final conflicts next Saturday, with the possible exception of the Chicago-Wisconsin tilt next week.

Most of the football experts picked the three leaders to win, at the same time qualifying their predictions by calling attention to previous upsets in hope and the fighting ability of the opposing eleven—Illini, Ohio State and Wisconsin.

Reports from Stagg field, Columbus and Ann Arbor indicated packed stands for the kick-off.

Northwestern, Iowa's foe next Saturday, plays Morningside college at Evanston.

JACQUES THIBAUD SCORES MUSICAL TRIUMPH IN CITY

"Most Beautiful Experience La Crosse Has Ever Had," Say Music Lovers

(By H. MARGARET JOSTEN)
"The most beautiful experience La Crosse has ever had," was the opinion of those who attended the concert given by Jacques Thibaud, French violinist, under the auspices of the Music Study club on Friday evening. Here were beauty refined to a point almost unbelievably exquisite, technique of such a perfection that it might be forgotten, an interpretive power resultant from the epitome of intelligent musicianship joined with those deep experiences of a soul which has through them risen to a spiritual exaltation far beyond that which can be called merely emotional.

The sympathy between artist and audience was established the moment Mr. Thibaud stepped upon the stage, the tall, earnest man who held his violin so lightly in the grasp of those long, strong fingers, the intense gaze of his eyes, the heat in the cheeks, the glow in the hair, the play of his muscles, the joy in the beauty of the phrases could not but have everyone in a feeling of incredulous delight.

Splendid Audience
But it is especially worthy of comment that throughout the evening the appreciation, understanding and discrimination of his listeners were such as must stimulate an artist to give of his best. Surely Mr. Thibaud could desire no finer type of audience than he had in La Crosse Friday night.

With the three movements from Lalo's Symphonie Espagnole the program embarked upon the familiar. It has been said that Mr. Thibaud plays this number better than does anyone else. One may well believe it, such fire, such brilliance, smoothness of tone plus all the needed warmth, elegance combined with eager zest. Who could conceive anything more inspired or more stirring? A broad, less naive and little glowing signs of pleasure must have expressed to Mr. Thibaud even more truly than the prolonged applause that followed a moment later the feeling of the audience.

The Romance in F major by Beethoven was played with great dignity and purity of style. Moment musical which in response to the audience's insistence he repeated was no more beautiful than any of several others but the number is so well known and loved that it is particularly gratifying to the listener. Mr. Thibaud's own arrangement of the Grandioso Spanish Dance was especially popular.

Treasured Recollections
One might name them all, turn them over as one does treasured possessions but the concert did not leave the writer, at least, with either the desire or the ability for expression in words, but with a sort of wordless ecstasy and a heart full of tears. One may look back quickly and marvel at the light speed of his fingers and the incredible velocity with which he took certain passages, at the infallible evenness of the bowing. One may realize again the careful enunciation of phrases, there was no forced rush of phrase upon phrase, however rapid the passage; each had its rightful emphasis. But it is not for these things Jacques Thibaud shall be remembered. For great spiritual nobility, for elegance of manner and for human warmth he stands alone.

Mr. Thibaud has, as he naturally would have, a very good accompanist. Mr. Charles Hart, the importance and excellence of whose work should not be overlooked because he stands in the shadow of a genius.

COURT DENIES PLEA OF KIN SEEKING TO FREE DOLLIE QUINN

Judge Higbee Says Woman's Health Demands Jail Term; May Go to State Hospital

Dollie Quinn will have to serve her sentence of six months in the county jail, imposed on Tuesday by Judge Higbee in circuit court, and maybe she will be sent to the state hospital at Mendota for treatment, the court intimated, after she has been examined by a board of physicians.

Albert C. Wolfe, who defended her in the case brought by the city in which she was charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, appeared before Judge Higbee Saturday morning and asked that Dollie Quinn be either paroled or sentence suspended, that she might be taken care of by her brother and his wife. The brother, Mr. Messerknecht, is a deputy sheriff in Winnebago county, Ill., and lives in Beloit, just over the state line in Illinois.

"I don't intend to release Dollie Quinn and give her into the custody of her brother," said the court. "My information is that when Dollie Quinn called up her brother on the long distance telephone at Beloit on the day she was sentenced she was told her brother was too drunk to answer the phone but would do so the next day. The next day he called up. From what I hear I think the sheriff's office in Beloit should be in jail instead of running the jail."

"And furthermore I intend to have Dollie Quinn examined by physicians and if her condition warrants it she will be sent to the state hospital at Mendota. At all events I think that it is for the good of her health that she remain in jail."

Mrs. Messerknecht, who was seated in the rear of the courtroom with her husband, the deputy sheriff, asked the court if she could be heard and the request was granted.

"There must be something wrong when you are informed that my husband was too drunk to answer the telephone. He doesn't drink," she said. "The brother in Dubuque is the one who drinks. And besides my husband is not a deputy sheriff in Winnebago county, Illinois, and he lives in the Illinois part of Beloit."

"Well, I am glad to know that such was not the case, concerning your husband," said the court. "However, we do not intend to let Dollie Quinn out. Police court records show that she has been fined twice in a year for the same offense. For her own good, she should be kept in jail."

PATIENCE EXHAUSTED SAYS NOE TO BERLIN

Premier free to occupy himself with the Lausanne conference.

"Germany has worn out the patience of her creditors," said Premier Poincare in his address to the deputies. Reviewing the reparations question in reply to interpellations the premier said:

"We shall never get anything from Germany so long as we limit our action to prayers and supplications. We do not intend to call the chamber why the government had not taken more effective action, he replied.

"We did not want to do anything before a conference which we requested and at which the problem of reparations, interrelated war debts and international loans will be examined. We agreed with Belgium that the conference should be held in December at Brussels and there we shall meet not only the British, Italians, Belgians and Japanese, but all our allies."

The premier explained failure of the London conference as due to Mr. Lloyd George's insistence upon giving Germany a moratorium without guarantees.

"We came home with empty hands," he exclaimed, "but we came home free. If we had not made use of that freedom it is because we want to exhaust all means of inducing Germany to remedy the financial situation which she willfully brought about."

Will Insist on Payment
"France does not look forward to measures of constraint against Germany with a light heart. We should much prefer tranquilly to receive what is owed us, but we shall allow no one to take out of our hands the arms against Germany that were given to us by the treaty of Versailles."

Regarding proposed reduction of the reparations bill, he said: "France can accept no settlement that does not recognize her position as the principal creditor of Germany. We can not abandon or cede any pledge."

LEGALITY OF BLACK RIVER DAM PROJECT NOW IN SPOTLIGHT

for even cattle to work their way through. Mr. Keppel said, and these must be cleared away if the water course is changed. Mr. Keppel was of the opinion that it was a job for the legislature to authorize and that the work should be made as near permanent as man could make it. In that event, Mr. Keppel said, $10,000 would not begin to cover the cost of the project.

Supervisor Staats suggested that the place to dam the chutes was at the point where the two merge and flow into the Mississippi river.

Mr. Olsen said that Mr. Keppel's comparison of Black river to little creeks was not fair and wanted to know why there should be delay while waiting for the legislature to act, the while continuing to expose the north side to an epidemic of disease. "Government maps still show Onalaska is on a navigable stream," said Mr. Olsen.

Legality of Move Doubtful

Chairman Davis doubted the legality of the city's right to assume responsibility for damages resulting from a return of the water to its original course if the city could not appropriate money to complete a project that was beyond the corporate limits of the city. Mr. Davis also declared that he was informed that if the board at this time appropriated $10,000 for the work that an injunction attacking the legality of the move would be sought. He also suggested that the finance and ways and means committee take into consideration the legality of the proposition.

Supervisor Orrin Fletcher said he didn't see how the board could proceed without having its legal rights in the matter defined. He also took the city members of the board to task for holding a meeting before the afternoon session, at which country members were barred, and then to go on the floor at the open meeting of the board and ask for certain things.

"I know the state would be glad to help out in this matter if it were asked," said Mr. Fletcher.

Supervisor Verly denied the charge that the city members excluded the country members from the meeting and then talked over the Black river project among themselves. Mr. Verly wanted the $10,000 appropriated at this time and if the project should be illegal, in its present form, the money would be refunded to the board. Mr. Verly was insistent that a start in the work be made at this time.

PEDESTRIAN KILLED BY PASSING MOTORIST

LADSMITH, Wis.—Mrs. Edgar Baker, who lived two miles south of Ladysmith, was run down and killed Friday afternoon by an automobile driven by Casper Telant of Chetek. Mrs. Baker was on her way to town and had just been called to by a passing friend with a car to get in and ride to the city. As she was about to get in, she apparently became confused by the approaching automobile. Telant did his best to avoid hitting the woman and in so doing ran his car into a deep ditch.

Telant is being held by the authorities pending investigation.

FARMERS IN CONTROL OF BADGER ASSEMBLY; CITY MEMBERS LEAD IN SENATE

MADISON, Wis.—By the Associated Press.—Rural control of the Wisconsin assembly and city control of the senate is shown by the classification of state legislators completed Saturday by Elmer S. Hall, secretary of state.

Farmers have a solid block of 45 votes in the lower house, practically all of them allied with the La Follette progressive faction of the republican party. Legislators from rural communities give the country districts complete sway over the assembly.

The senate has only two farmers in its membership of 33, while here cities furnish practically all of the upper house legislators. Seven lawyers, two doctors, one editor, two bankers, and a number of business men, all city residents, are in the senate.

This division often has an important bearing on legislation due to the differing viewpoints of the city and rural members on many of the legislative questions that arise. Because of the present state of mind of agricultural interests, the farmer members of the lower house are expected to propose drastic legislation to meet some of their problems.

The assembly political line-up exclusive of Milwaukee, from which report on the outcome of all contests has not yet been received by the secretary of state, shows that 55 new members have endorsement of the La Follette faction. This is a clear majority, with 20 Milwaukee districts still to be heard from.

One Democrat

One democrat, Richard Kamke of Merrill, survived the republican sweep this fall, and is the lone representative of his party in the legislature.

In the senate, 17 of the 33 seats are held by men allied with the La Follette faction, three members are socialists and 13 have in the past been opposed to the La Follette control in the republican party.

O. G. Kinney, senator-elect from the eleventh district, because of his serious illness, may not be able to sit in the coming session and in event of his resignation a special election will be called. There is a possibility that the administration would lose a seat in the upper house in this case, and unless some opposition senators change their political complexion, a majority would be lost to the La Follette faction.

Leaders Returned

Leadership is available for both factions in each of the houses, with return of influential members to the coming session.

John L. Dahl, Barron county, will head the administration forces in assembly, and is slated for the speakership with election almost assured. Should he go into the chair, Assemblyman Herman Sachtlein of Dane county and E. C. Hanson of Pierce county, will be floor leaders for the La Follette faction.

Assemblyman A. E. Matheson of Rock county and David Summerville of Rusk and Sawyer counties, will lead the opposition forces. They were leaders of the majority faction in the last legislature.

IDENTIFY BODY FOUND IN WOODS AS MISSING MAN

HILL CITY, Minn.—With the discovery of human bones in the woods near Solana Friday, the mystery of the disappearance of Arthur Richardson, age 66, a farmer who has been missing since August, 1919, is being cleared. Beside the body lay a high calibre rifle containing an empty cartridge, upon which authorities have based the theory of suicide. A watch and knife found on the body were identified by Richardson's two sons.

Hunters looking for deer in a dense grove four miles from the Richardson farm dislodged a pair of high rubber boots from the undergrowth. The bones were discovered near the footwear. D. F. Williams, coroner of Aitkin county, expressed the belief that Richardson took his life. One of the dead man's sons, the coroner said, had told him his father had once threatened suicide. Richardson, at the time of his disappearance had awakened early in the morning and went into the woods with his rifle. The family supposed he went after the cows but they never saw him alive again.

Richardson was an old settler in Solana and at one time justice of the peace there. He was a member of the Masonic lodge. He is survived by a widow and two sons.

ELEPHANT GETS WHISKEY FOR STROKE—A VANDERBILT WEDS—YANK BEATS BRITISH—WILSON TODAY

BEAUTY IN $200,000 LOVE SUIT—Newark (N. J.) society received a shock when Gertrude Gladys Hunter, 21, asked $200,000 heart balm from Paul E. Heller for alleged breach of promise. Heller, member of a prominent Newark family, is old enough to be the girl's father. He denies her charge.

THIS REFEREE WAS ON THE JOB—In a swift play during the Denver-University of Colorado game, the interference slipped between Referee Dana and the man carrying the ball. Dana was seen to leap high in the air in order to keep his eye on the man with the ball. He performed this feat several times during the game.

A VANDERBILT WEDDING—All New York society was present at the wedding of Louise Morris, great-granddaughter of the late William H. Vanderbilt, and Dudley Holbrook Mills of New York. The ceremony was surrounded with all the glamour of a Vanderbilt wedding.

CALLED IT OFF—At the eleventh hour, the wedding of Brenda Bond, Boston society girl now on the New York stage, to Jack Payne Smith, a Back Bay clubman, was cancelled. "Mutual agreement," was Miss Bond's only explanation.

REPORTED ENGAGED TO CHAPLIN—Eleanor Boardman, famous film beauty, is about to become the second Mrs. Charlie Chaplin according to reports from California.

HEALTH RETURNS TO WILSON—The vigor and strength of Woodrow Wilson will play an important part in American politics in the next two years. This latest photograph of the former president shows how much he has improved in the last few months.

ART—Here is one of the beautiful Marion Morgan dancers posing in a recent tableau at the Fine Arts Building, San Francisco.

HALL WITNESS—Mrs. Anna Barton of Queen Village, Long Island, is the most recent figure in the Hall case. She declares that she saw a girl and three men abduct Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills.

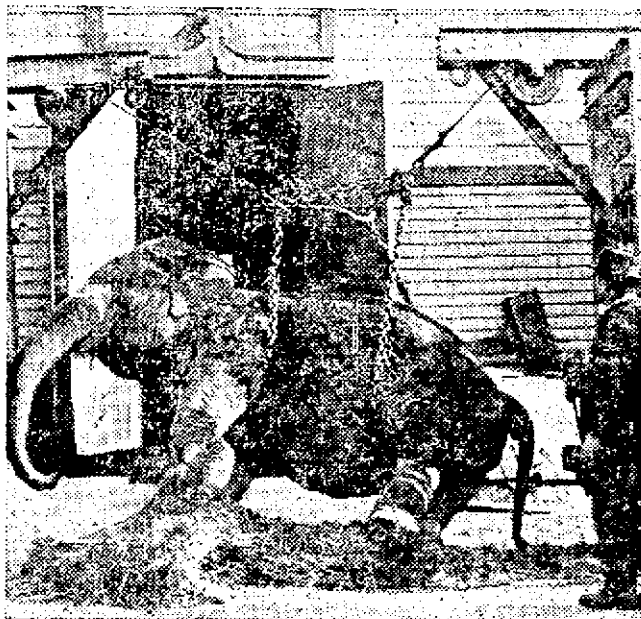

HE DID IT—The Rev. Mr. Vogel, Lutheran minister of Potsdam, was the clergyman who joined the former Kaiser and Princess Hermine in wedding at Doorn. Here Rev. Vogel is shown wearing his military decorations which include the Iron Cross.

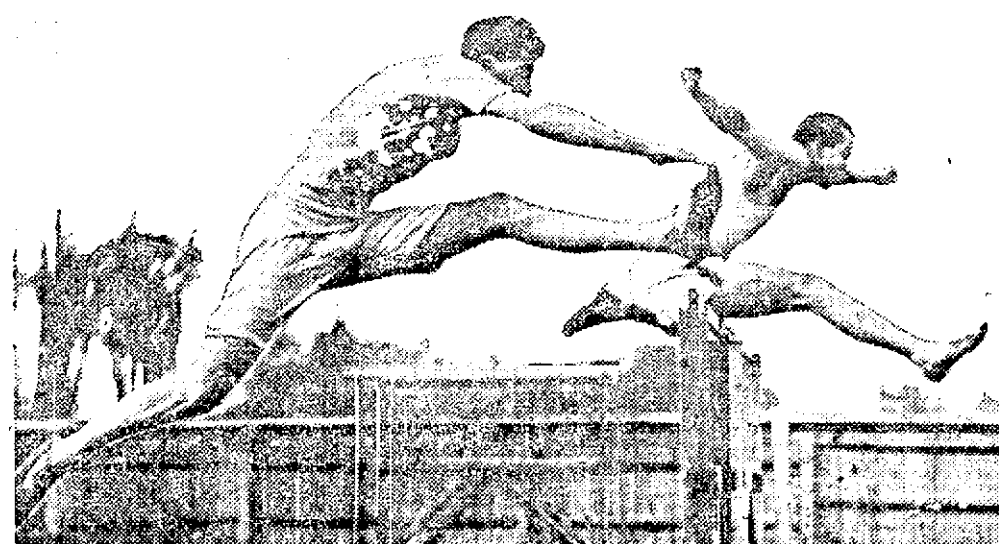

CANARY THE DEATH GAUGE AT SPANGLER—Canaries were carried into the gas-filled death pit at Spangler by rescue squads who went down to save miners from a death by poison gas or fire. The canary in its cage is shown with a squad who are about to descend.

BOSTON GIRL PREMIERE DANSEUSE—Paylova is no longer the incomparable. The art of the famous Russian is being compared to that of 19-year-old Beth Cannon of Boston who will be the premiere danseuse of the Russian ballet in New York next spring. Miss Cannon is the youngest premiere danseuse in the world and has had her toes insured for $100,000.

HATTIE STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS—Hattie, famous elephant of Central Park, N. Y., has been stricken with paralysis and derrieks are necessary to shift the enormous patient from one side to another. But Hattie is steadily improving on the treatment of one quart of whisky a day.

IN PHOTO SUIT—When a health institute broadcasted a photograph of pretty Mrs. Marion Morton O'Reilly, much trouble arose. The picture which showed Mrs. O'Reilly in tight-fitting clothes was not for public exhibition. Now she has filed suit against the institute for $100,000, declaring that because of the picture her husband, wealthy New York broker, left her.

GETTING EVEN WITH THE AUTO—Leonard Stroud, former world's champion rider, gave his broncho a chance for revenge on his mechanical rival in this brilliant feat of horsemanship. In one magnificent leap the spirited animal carried his rider over the high touring car.
